Retrieval Augmented Generation

RAG searches documents before asking a language model to answer.

The application retrieves relevant text chunks from a database.

It gives those chunks to the model so the answer can use the documents.